

The French Association For Natural Disaster Risk Reduction (AFPCN) and the German Committee for Disaster Reduction e. V. (DKKV) aim to create a European platform to facilitate European cooperation and the exchange of expertise and best-practices between European platforms and experts. We invite the community to join the discussion.

June 15, 13:00 - 14:00h

AFPCN - DKKV Joint WebTalk 01:

Exchange of experience on flood management in France and Germany:

dialogue between practitioners at the local level

The speakers will discuss their respective practice of risk prevention in Cologne and Paris. The objective of this WebTalk is to highlight good practices from which they could inspire each other as well as to identify other themes for future exchanges.

Speakers:

Dr. Marlene Willkomm

Deputy Head of the Flood Protection Centre at the Municipal Drainage Operation Cologne, AöR

Dr. Marlene Willkomm will talk about flood protection in the city of Cologne and especially about public relation and communication in regard to flood risk management.

Régis Thépot

Deputy Secretary General of French association for natural disaster risk reduction (AFPCN) and international expert on DRR policy implementation.

Régis Thépot will share his experience as a practitioner on flood risk management in France, and more specifically on flood risk governance.

Moderation: Patrick Pigeon

Professor at the University of Savoie-Mont-Blanc and member of the Mediations laboratory (Paris IV, Sorbonne University).

Patrick Pigeon has published several books and participated in several European research programs on disaster risk prevention.
